mother and daughter, over the custody of the latter's children, was aired in the courts this week. The parties were Mrs. Naylor-Leyland and her daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Chetwynd, a sister-in-law of Lady Naylor-Leyland, who was Miss Jennie Chamberlain, of Cleveland, O. Mrs. Chetwynd was divorced from her husband in 1900. She then signed an agreement allowing her two little girls to spend a certain time with Mrs. Naylor-Leyland, for which privilege the latter allowed her daughter £2,000 yearly, making her income £4,000. On Thursday last Mrs. Chetwynd sued her mother to recover £2,000 under this agreement, but a decision was rendered against her, as it was proved that she had removed the children from their grandmother's care, had taken them to South Africa, and had neglected their education, thereby breaking her part of the contract. In court Mrs. Chetwynd swore that her mother was mad, and that she was not fit to have the children with her, on account of her constantly changing cooks, believing in ghosts, and allowing Socialists to meet in her cellars. Mrs. Chetwynd further alleged that her mother always hated her and treated her neglectfully. Answering questions put by counsel she declared that no one brought up as a millionaire's daughter could live on £4,000 a year. Justice Ridley, commenting on the testimony, said he regretted he had not had the advantage of being brought up as a

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 1.-The most interesting remains of the ancient Sarmatlans ever discovered have been unearthed on the banks of the Rosi river, province of Kieff. At a depth of two meters were found traces of ancient incineration, and near several charred bones was picked up a smooth, thick ornament of golden wire, on which was represented a scene with a number of typical figures. In the foreground sits a woman in a high-backed chair holding a round mirror in her left hand. In her right hand is a cup from which a bearded, kneeling warrior is drinking wine. He is armed with a bow and sword. Behind these are a musician with a lyre, a youth pouring wine into a cup held by another youth, a priest in long garments, with a sword held in readiness to sacrifice a restive sheep, and a figure with a fan. The work is crude, but there are traces in it of Greek influence.

In his tour Governor Taft had found the industries in progress, though much interrupted, largely on account of the destruction of the water buffalo, or cariboo, the work cattle of the islands. This animal he described as "the beast of burden, the family friend, the wealth of the individual and the object of all the robber bands of REV. H. C. MINTON IN TOWN the mountain districts." In the last two years about 75 per cent. of these animals had been killed off by a disease called rinderpest and their price had been increased from $30 to $140 per head. Agriculture also had been interrupted by insurrection, but in the vicinity of Manila this was not true to-day. In the city, where the streets are rough, the witness said that the cariboo moves so slowly as to block the streets, and he thought that mules should be imported. He also expressed the opinion that milk-producing animals might be imported to advantage. There are fine cattle ranges, but to his knowledge no milk is produced on the islands.

Resuming the thread of his narrative Governor Taft said the island of Cebu was not long organized into a civilized government until it was found necessary to return to military control. He had, however, the United States that the 300 or 400 innumber of steamers constructed on the surgents on the island had surrendered and
